Photo: Getty Images Yes, this was a blast, wasn't it? NBA basketball camp, at Santa Clara University, has become one of the most interesting parts of the Warriors offseason. You'd think that the fans watching Steph Curry and Kevin Durant get ready to become the greatest team in NBA history would probably be pretty moved. You'd think Warriors fans would be sold. But not so much. As some of the loudest fans of the greatest team in NBA history start to realize that their team is about to have a major contender make even better, the fans get a bit restless. Many others are thrilled. They've always loved these guys. Still, the throng of fandom is feeling a bit more raucous than it has this whole offseason. One of the NBA's more notorious Warriors fans tweeted a photograph of his group outside of the Warriors' Wednesday morning shootaround in Santa Clara. It's noisy out here at the Santa Clara Warriors home court #NailinAgain pic.twitter.com/SzXtrUZSpF — Mitchell Kriegsman (@mitchell_krieg) October 15, 2017 I don't know if it's the loudest fan base in the NBA. But it's easily one of the rowdiest. Hell, it's practically the rowdiest. It's no surprise that the once-quiet building has taken to such an uncharacteristic level of full-out energy.Q: MIDI channel confusion I am somewhat confused

Somatostatin-immunoreactive neuroendocrine cells in the pars intermedia of the pituitary. The distribution of somatostatin-immunoreactive (SOM-IR) cells in the pars intermedia of rat pituitary was investigated to determine whether they are indeed the anatomical counterparts of neurointermediate (NI) cells described in the rat pars distalis. The SOM-IR cells were distributed throughout the pars intermedia, with densest packing of SOM-IR cell bodies around the intermediate lobe. The highest concentrations of SOM-IR varicosities were observed in the walls of the lateral and intermediate lobes. SOM-IR cells were not observed in the pars nervosa of the pituitary. To localize SOM-IR cells in the pars distalis using immunofluorescence microscopy, as opposed to radioimmunoassays using brain extract as a source of SOM antiserum, the SOM antiserum was absorbed with 10(7) and 10(8) mouse brain cells. Under these conditions, SOM-IR cells in the pars distalis appeared as negative stain by fluorescence microscopy. This first demonstration that SOM-IR cells are not "retractions cells" of DI cells is consistent with the known anatomical distribution of NI cells in the pars distalis and the paucity of NI cells in the intermediate lobe.[19-month survival after disseminated intravascular coagulation]. Disseminated intravascular coagulation (DIC) is a major complication of many diseases, and is generally characterized by a weak response of normal proteins. We report herein a case with marked DIC, beginning with a seizure with altered mental status. Laboratory data showed thrombocytopenia and anemia. The patient's brain computed tomography image showed diffuse low density at the mid-peripheral occipital and parietal regions. A magnetic resonance image showed ischemic white matter changes in the frontal and temporal region. The outcome at 19 months after the onset of the event was favorable. Editor's Note : We are expecting one or more decisions in argued cases tomorrow at 10 a.m., so

(Sideways) Sideways New York is a New York City tour that allows for creative freedom and spontaneity. This crew of photographers work in different styles, and are able to use the flexibility the Sideways format provides, to "break rules, capture moments, and create an experience that is all their own." Sideways™ New York travelled to Buenos Aires for the first time this year, hitting the streets of Rosario, Santa Fe, Arroyito, San Cristobal, Mar del Plata, and Miami respectively to capture the vibrancy of Sideways™. It's an amazing way to experience the city and the culture of its streets. I've been a part of Sideways™ New York for two years now and each experience I take in is changing and evolving. Because of Sideways™, I've met a bunch of new people, and had a bunch of people who I would have never met. Sideway™ New York has exposed me to new and funky cultures, and lifestyle. I hope people get on board and check it out. I know I've met some people that I would have never before known the streets of New York to have. To meet people that shared your passion for street photography and really understood it. We're always coming up with new and exciting things and I hope people are checking it out. I'd love to see people in the comments, know a little more about what Sideways™ is about and what people think about it. Thanks for all who continue to support me in whatever I do. Download my Sideways™ NYC 2012 Photo Roundup and see the story of the tour! With the discovery of this new methodology, it could be said that SDNY has created a completely new avenue for photographers to explore creativity. This new branch of photography, though still young, has given me in a way an opportunity to escape the "repetitiveness" of the traditional format. I took the invitation “LOOK! IT’S A FEATHER!” in a whole new meaning... because what could be more interesting than a city on a bite of a go-go bird?! I began learning what it means to be spontaneous, to “play and laugh a little more”... wandering around, participating just for the lovely feeling of being free like this... it's like few picnics with friends enjoying good memories.
